FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Auditors Don't Care About Excuses

Reporting on security settings in your JD Edwards EnterpriseOne ERP eliminates the need for making excuses and makes your audits a bit more pleasant.

DENVER, CO—Sept 30, 2011— In a move to continually raise the bar on value provided to their customers, QSoftware is the latest company to integrate its application with the Insight Software Suite, the industry standard in ERP reporting for the JD Edwards market.

“We know the issues in security management and compliance. One misstep can cause irrecoverable results,” says Mike Ward, managing director of QSoftware. “Our efforts are laser-focused on our core competency -- providing the gold standard of security management. Rather than try to build a reporting tool, we elected to partner with the gold standard of ERP reporting, InsightSoftware.com.”

This integration rounds out QSoftware's ability to offer a complete solution for security management, segregation of duties and compliance with an intuitive, real-time reporting tool. This is evidenced in the ability to report across QSoftware and JD Edwards EnterpriseOne tables to get more meaningful data, allowing users to modify reports as necessary, and giving business managers real-time drill down insight into their departmental business.

“It's not a secret that reporting out of ERP systems is difficult at best. We partner with companies that help make the lives of our customers easier,” says Paul Sutton, EMEA director of InsightSoftware.com. “QSoftware extends the flexible, real-time experience that Insight Software Suite customers already know and love, into their critical security data. Auditors don't care about excuses. They only care that you are in compliance.”
